My Partner and I
Pay a Visit to

Hope Shanhouse Plant

My partner, C. E. Palmer, and I went through the Hope plant of W. Shanhouse Sons, Wednesday afternoon escorted by Ronald DuVal, plant manager. It was a follow-up visit in connection with Shanhouse's simultaneous employee parties at both the Hope and Magnolia plants Tuesday night.

Mr. Palmer had never seen the local plant, and while I had been through it before we found something to amaze us.

In previous visits I had been fascinated by the skill, accuracy, and responsibility of the men operating the material-cutting machines. Expensive cloth is spread out in layers several inches deep on tables many yards long, with cut-out lines for the various pieces of a garment printed on the material. Then the cutter runs through this deep pile swiftly with his electric shears. Each cut produces a particular piece for dozens of a certain style garment — but a single slip of the shears would ruin a pile of valuable cloth. There were no slips.

But on our Wednesday visit Mr. Palmer and I saw something just as amazing. Manager DuVal this time showed us the girls at work on the button-hole machine, and on the machine that sews the buttons on.

I'm still thinking of what I saw when the double-barreled button-hole machine zipped across the material. One instant there was a blank piece of material — and the next instant a complete button-hole appeared. Whatever it was that happened I didn't get it.

But I imagine the fellow who figured out the machine that makes button-holes automatically is on easy street — and the same goes for the man who made the button slither-oner.

Mr. Palmer and I may have approached the Shanhouse factory Wednesday in a rather crusty frame of mind, for we did a little pioneering ourselves back in 1942 when our associated newspapers set up the complicated perforated telegraph tape system which established the first newspaper Teletype-setter circuit in America. But we came away from the Shanhouse plant in a humble frame of mind.

Newspapers are important. But button-holes are basic. And the way the Shanhouse plant girls turn out basic work on automatic machines is something marvelous.

$75,000 Suit Being Tried in Court Here

An auto wreck in the northern tip of Hempstead on the Murfreesboro Highway in October 1951 brought about a $75,000 personal injury suit now being tried in Circuit Court here.

In a right-of-way dispute B. W. Edwards and Vincent Foster were awarded $390 against the County of Hempstead.

Some Expect More Foreign Aid Slashes

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Some congressmen greeted an administration cut of 334 million dollars in foreign aid requests as a step in the right direction today, but several served notice they expected still further reductions.

The 354-million-dollar slice off next year's Mutual Security program was submitted by William M. Rand, acting Mutual Security director, as "savings" from current funds to be credited to fiscal 1954 appropriations.

Chairman Taber (R-NY) said the appropriations committee wasn't going to accept "the same old plugs" for foreign spending until the Mutual Security Administration MSA came up with "only the administration's revised foreign aid budget of $5,372,000,000."

Probers Get Names of British Ships

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The State Department gave Senate investigators today the names of two British ships that carried Communist troops in China in 1951 and 1952.

The names — and the names of the ship's British owners — were announced by acting Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee.

The British had denied submarine charges that British ships transported Communist troops and had demanded that it supply ship names and other details.

In a letter to the subcommittee, assistant Secretary of State Thurston B. Morton identified the vessels as the Perico, then owned by Walehm & Co., Ltd., of Hong Kong, and the Miramar, then owned by Whetlock, Marden Co., Ltd., Hong Kong.

Both ships were registered under the Panamanian flag at the time of the trips. The Perico was later sold for scrap. The Miramar is now in Chinese Communist hands, Morton said.

Mundt said the subcommittee did not know the size of the vessels or how many troops were carried. Names of the ships had been classified as secret, but the State Department disclosed them at the subcommittee's urging after the British complained that they could not answer the subcommittee charges because they were not specific.

9,000-Man Chinese Attack Is Stopped After Small Gains; Ike Firmly Rejects Taft Plan

U. S. to Keep Up Worldwide Cooperation

By JOHN L. STEELE

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today firmly rejected Sen. Robert A. Taft's suggestion that the United States go it alone in Korea if truce negotiations break down.

The President told a news conference the United States must maintain world-wide cooperation with its Allies and that the partners must share the ups and downs.

At the same time, he countered rising South Korean dissatisfaction with United Nations truce terms by asserting that no solution to the Korean war should be adopted which would be basically unfair to the South Korean republic.

Certainly, he said, we should never adopt a solution that our consciences tell us is unfair to South Korea. Every implication of this statement was that he feels the new truce proposals, considering all present circumstances, meet that test.

The President said that if the United Nations can get an agreement such as recently put up to the Communists by the U. N., we should be in a better position to go ahead toward a just plan for South Korea than we could without a truce.

He reiterated his position that there is no forced repatriation of prisoners. The South Koreans, however, are insisting that a final peace must result in unification of North and South Korea.

Mr. Eisenhower reminded reporters that in situations such as the Korean war it is impossible to reach sudden objectives. He said that final goal must be approached step by step.

This comment seemed to be in the nature of a plea to the South Korean government to be patient — unity is not won overnight.

As for Taft's position, Mr. Eisenhower said the Senate Republican leader from Ohio is entitled to his own convictions. But Mr. Eisenhower said that in his opinion a "go-alone" policy has no place in American planning.

Russia Takes Control of East Germany Away From Army, May Remove Most of Troops

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN — Russia took its control over East Germany out of the hands of the military today. It could mean withdrawal of troops, eventually.

The announcement said the Soviet control commission is abolished. Gen. Vasily I. Chukov will handle only troops hereafter, and Vladimir Semenyov returns to Berlin as "supreme commissar" for the Soviet Union.

Semenyov thus becomes civilian boss of affairs for 18 million East Germans. He served here before as political adviser to Chukov.

Gen. Chukov, hero of Stalingrad and lifter of the Berlin blockade, undoubtedly will not remain here long merely to direct 300,000 occupation troops. It might be, Allied sources said, that his last job in Germany will be to "take Ivan home."

Western circles heard last February that the Russians had fixed June 1 as a target date to withdraw troops.

The selection of Semenyov to be top man in East Germany is in some respects an imitation of the Western powers who have chosen "ambassadors" to West Germany. As soon as the European defense treaties are ratified by all six parties Continued on Page Four

Ike Against Admitting China to UN

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower said today he does not believe Red China should be admitted to the United Nations under present world circumstances.

He added, however, it would be a very drastic thing to withdraw U. S. financial support from the U. N. if the Chinese Communists became members.

The President's remarks were at a news conference. The Senate Appropriations Committee voted late yesterday to shut off American contributions to the U. N. if Communist China ever takes a seat on the U. N. security council.

Under the U. N. charter, China is entitled to a permanent seat on the Security Council. Nationalist China now occupies it.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) said only three of the group's 234 members opposed the ban which was sponsored by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.). Bridges indicated he thought the Senate would uphold the provision.

The rider was put on a $1,104,000,000 bill carrying funds to run the State, Commerce and Justice Departments in fiscal 1954. The House did not include in the measure any provision like the Dirksen rider.

The bill carries about 25 million dollars for U. S. contributions to the U. N. in the fiscal year starting July 1. This country has been paying about one-third of the cost of running the international organization.

Admission of Red China to the U. N. has been an explosive issue as the Korean truce talks have reached a critical stage. The British government has indicated it would favor the seating of Red China in the U. N.

Fair Park to Formally Open Season Activities

It has been officially announced that the playground program for the summer will open Saturday morning with the opening of the swimming pool and Fair park. In addition to the swimming, tennis, badminton, washers, horseshoes, softball, and baseball will be offered at the park.

Monday, June 1, the playground will operate on a definite schedule. Boys and girls of all ages are invited. Activities will begin each morning, except Sunday night. A teen club will be there they will reopen at 2 p.m. and close for the day at 5 p.m.

Every Friday night will be "teen age night." Teen club will be organized with the election of officers. Activities will be carried on weekly through this club. The club will be sponsored each week by responsible persons.

Anyone who has any ideas of forms of recreation for children or grown-ups should contact Kelsey Moore, Director of Parks and Recreation.

U. S. Not to Hold Romanian as Hostage

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The State Department today turned thumbs down on suggestions of outraged citizens that this country hold Romanian Diplomat Christache Zambelet as a hostage until Romania frees the sons of V. C. Georgescu.

A spokesman branded the idea "gingster tactics" and said the United States could not be a party to such a move.

Zambelet has been ordered out of the United States for trying to blackmail Georgescu, a naturalized American of Romanian descent, into spying against the United States for the Communist regime in Romania. Zambelet told Georgescu he might get to see his two teenage sons held in Romania if he would "collaborate politically."

Georgescu repudiated the offer and went to the FBI and State Department with the story.

The incident aroused angry reactions among congressmen and private citizens, who called for stern U. S. action to safeguard Georgescu's sons.

One proposal called to the department's attention was from a war veteran, Henry Born of New York, who urged that Zambelet and "every member of the Romanian legion" be held "until the Romanian government delivers unhurt the sons of Georgescu to America."

But a department spokesman said the United States couldn't do that.

Tabernacle to Start Two-Weeks Bible School

The Vacation Bible School beginning Monday, June 1 at Hope Gospel Tabernacle will be unique and different from that of previous years under the direction of Miss Vivian Allen of San Bernardino, Calif.

Miss Allen will work with flannelboards, two and sometimes three at the same time, using extra large flannelboards and scenes along with felt figures which will be at least three times the average size, painted with luminous paints and will use "Bak-Ray" lighting which will bring the scenes to life and make the glorious Bible stories even more thrilling.

She will have appropriate organ background music which not only adds to the beauty of the story but helps to create an atmosphere of reverence. In conjunction with these Bible stories there will be songs, contests and prizes for all ages, 4 years old and up.

Miss Allen is working under the Rev. J. Raymond "Tom" Sunday School Director of the Assembly of God in Southern California, and is a member of the "Story Teller's" Corporation.

Slight Gains in Biggest Assault of the Year

By FORREST EDWARDS

SEOUL, (Friday) (UP) — Approximately 9,000 Chinese Reds inched one of their biggest attacks of the year across the Korean front Thursday, gained slightly in the center but were stopped cold in the West.

About 9,500 Chinese seized five outposts from South Koreans along a 20-mile sector of the Central Front before dawn. Vicious no-quarter fighting raged around four more Red attacks on five other outposts were beaten back.

Another 2,500 Chinese slammed against five strategic outposts on the Western Front near the truce town of Panmunjom in a drizzling rain Thursday night, but got almost nowhere in hand-to-hand combat.

Koreans Trying to Block Truce Terms

By LEROY HANSEN

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — South Korea today pressed its drive to block a Korean truce on terms of the latest United Nations proposal, calling it a "surrender" to the Communists.

Nine South Korean assemblymen went to the U. N. truce camp at Munson to protest personally to the chief Allied negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison.

Their visit occurred amid unconfirmed reports that President Eisenhower would appeal directly to South Korean President Syngman Rhee as a last resort to prevent South Korea from withdrawing from the truce talks scheduled to be resumed at Panmunjom next Monday.

The assemblymen told Harrison at an hour-long meeting that the United Nations was "surrendering" to the enemy in its new proposal by permitting Communist troops of Poland and Czechoslovakia to enter South Korea as guards of anti-Red Chinese and North Koreans.

Informed sources in Washington said, however, that the new plan would permit only India to send troops to Korea.

It was learned here, however, the new plan calls for "3,200" armed foreign troops, including 100 Communists, to take over guard duties. The breakdown includes 5,000 Indians and 80 each from the four other "neutral" nations — Poland, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and Sweden.

Cool Air Hits North, None Hits Here

BY UNITED PRESS

A cool mass of Canadian air hit the Great Lakes region today while the New England area was pelted with occasional showers.

Other parts of the nation were still recovering from such weather blows as drought, floods, and in some areas, hail.

In Port Isabel, Tex., authorities said today the city was threatened with "heavy dryness" within a matter of hours and called for tank trucks to haul in an emergency supply of water.

J. J. Jandron, secretary of the water board, said "we'll pull the water of anyone caught using water for anything but the most essential needs."

Jandron said if a bad fire broke out, they would have to turn the water into city mains and "that would damage or ruin about $100,000 worth of equipment."

Port Isabel was the third Texas city to face a critical water shortage within two days. Wichita Falls and Fort Worth both went on water rationing programs.

El Dorado, Kan., was at the mercy of the weather again. A flash flood of the usually quiet Walnut river boiled through 300 residential blocks, killing one person and sending more than 150 persons scurrying for rooftops and trees.

City Manager Harley McMillon said the flood was under control although there were still some families unaccounted for.

A volunteer fire brigade rescued scores of frightened persons clinging to trees and hanging on rooftops.

Meanwhile, Minnesota farmers armed with dynamite, sticks and axes (armed with dynamite sticks) went down swarms of tent caterpillars. And in Posey County, Ind., hundreds of army worms ravaged hundreds of acres of grain and hay.

A Wisconsin expert warned that state farmers they faced the same danger unless they took immediate action.

Happiness Means Success to the Average Family—Nations Should Follow Examples

By HAL BOYLE

LONDON.—Mr. Britain's royal family is the living symbol of her national progress.

But it is people like Mrs. Lucy Mary Tanner, who keep that country going with their sweat, tears, and quiet life-long courage.

Mrs. Tanner is one of those indomitable Cockney charlatans who impress most London visitors. She is a subdued but cheerful woman of 55 with dark eyes and graying hair, and she is still slender as a girl although she has had 10 children.

Besides doing all her own housework, she still does six hours out of her work each day—three spent in cleaning offices and three sweeping and mopping a flat next door and the flat in which I am staying.

This brings her $11.20 a week, before taxes, and it goes into the family budget.

There is a wistful quality about Mrs. Tanner's face, the look of a woman who has seen the best of things and the worst.

Oh, it would fit a book, she said, but she sat down, and over a cup of tea she told me this:

"I came of a large family and went to work at 14 and I have been working ever since. I married a 17, and have lived 38 years in the same rented house."

"I have eight boys and one girl alive, and I lost another girl."

Young. Most of my life I worked in a laundry ironing. When you've got a big family, you must try one way and then another. But my husband and I all share the same purse."

"I feel very lucky, considering I have boys in the war. Two went to the Middle East, one to Germany, one to Normandy. And one in the navy—he was in that battle that sunk the Scharnhorst."

"Not one was wounded."

"For five years during the war I worked in the gas works as a stoker, a bricklayer's helper, and as a yard laborer."

"A bomb landed in our back yard. The house was so badly damaged they wouldn't even take rent from us for eight months—no windows, no roof. We lived in the basement."

"I used to sit in the shelter at night and wonder if we would ever all be together again. I don't think I could go through all that time again. No, I couldn't. As you get older there are some things you cannot do."

"My husband is a postman, 33 years in service. But he loses a lot of time through illness. He was gassed in the first war."

"He works at night, and sleeps in the day."

"Weekends is the only time you have pleasure. On Saturday night I go out with the boys and have a drink. But I do it in turn, as there are 11."

"We're a happy family. We all seem to agree, and I think that's a good thing, isn't it?"

Lucille Ruggles Feted at Party
The home of Mrs. W. M. Ramsey, 811 South Elm, was the scene of a bridge party Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock complimenting Miss Lucille Ruggles, bride-elect of Robert Eugene Spangh. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. James L. Meyers and Mrs. Kinzie McKee.

Guests were greeted at the door by Misses Cheryl and Caryl Myers. The living room was decorated with attractive arrangements of summer flowers. The coffee table held a low bowl arrangement of floating gardenias and plumosa fern. An antique cut glass bowl on the desk was filled with nymphaea blossoms.

The honoree was given a corsage of vanda orchids with split carnations. The hostesses presented the bride-elect's mother and grandmother with gardenia corsages. Members of the house party wore gardenias in their hair.

The bride's chosen color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the dining room decorations. The table, covered with a lace cloth, held a crystal epoque of four white tapers and pink hydrangea blossoms with Queen Anne's lace. The buffet was adorned with an artistic arrangement of pink and white gladioli, and on either side were crystal eperges holding burning white tapers.

Mrs. Newton Pentecost presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Joe Irvin served the individual pink cakes embossed with white wedding bells. The wedding date was embossed on the pink napkins, and a silver compote held white and pink mints.

During the evening, games were played, and each guest wrote her favorite recipe. Miss Ruggles was presented a gift of silver in her chosen pattern by the hostesses. Twenty guests enjoyed the occasion.

Chapter AE of the PEO Sisterhood closed activities for the club year with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Herbert Stephens at Blowing on Tuesday, May 26.

After the luncheon the regular order of business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Franklin Horton. Reports were given by the officers and by Mrs. C. V. Num, chairman of the yearbook committee, and by Mrs. T. O. Kyster, chairman of the courtesy committee.

The president appointed her committees to serve for the new year's activities. Mrs. Basil York and Mrs. C. C. McNeil were welcomed into the chapter as new members of the sisterhood.

For the program Mrs. Walter Sims spoke on "Guard Your Husband's Heart." Twenty members of Chapter AE

French Crisis Drags Into Seventh Day

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (U) — The French political crisis dragged into its seventh weary day today and President Vincent Auriol turned once more to the moderate center parties in his search for a new premier.

The assembly tured down right-winger Paul Reynaud early this morning and Auriol was expected later today to ask either Georges Bidault or Andre Marie—both middle-of-the-roads — to try the cab-

Hate America Drive Likely From Moscow

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Moscow suddenly has changed its tone, and a new "hate America" campaign seems in the offing. The Kremlin charge of American spy activities in the Soviet Union indicates the new campaign will be dictated largely by internal conditions. The post-Stalin regime of Georgi M. Malenkov evidently still has a struggle on its hands and cannot afford to extend its brief era of sweetness and light.

The mask of reasonableness appeared to have dropped away abruptly last weekend with Pravda's blast against the projected Bermuda conference of the Big Three. On top of this came the Kremlin's rejection of four-power talks on an Austrian treaty of independence. The chips were down on a test of Moscow's sweet talk.

The new spy charges put out by the Kremlin follow precisely and almost in every detail the pattern of the charges against the United States in December, 1951, when the Americans were accused of parachuting spies into Soviet Moldavia. Like the Ukraine, Moldavia has been a source of trouble to the Kremlin, a constant target of press abuse because of outcroppings of "bourgeois nationalism."

These charges were followed up by a formal Moscow protest to Washington that the United States was encouraging subversive activities inside Soviet and "peoples democracy" territory. A similar protest may be expected this time.

in the forming task. Bidault was for eign minister in the government which fell a week ago and Mollet was education minister. Both have served as premier in the parade of cabinets — 18 since the 1945 liberations — which have governed France.

Auriol has already asked Parliament to try a left-winger — Socialist Guy Mollet — and one of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's rightist followers — Andre Diebihem. Now he is trying to see if he has any better luck with a member of one of the center parties which have governed for the past eight years.

Russia Takes

The Russian action was regarded here as matching that of the Weimar Republic. It could mean that Moscow is to succeed the European treaties signed by all, including resistant France, and therefore it is ready to recognize the Russian zone of Germany as an independent state. Such a move would be virtually necessary to withdraw the 300,000-man army which has lured off the East German since 1945.

The Russians have indicated new strategy recently by naming the East zone of moral,

Professor May Be Cited for Contempt

WASHINGTON, (INS)—A Cornell University professor was threatened with possible contempt action by House investigators today for his repeated refusal to name persons he knew as Communists.

Marcus Singer, who testified yesterday that he was a Communist in the 1940's but broke completely with the Reds after World War II, maintained he could not name others "in honor and conscience."

Chairman Velde (R-Ill.) of the House Un-American Activities committee, warned the witness that he faced the possibility of being cited for contempt, but Singer continued his refusal to answer.

Singer declared that if he should ever "encounter subversion" he would feel it his duty to report it. But he insisted that he knew of no subversion among his past associates.

Singer said that others who attended Communist meetings at Harvard University with him were professors either at Harvard or at

Attorney Burned in Explosion

FORREST CITY (AP) — John Mann Jr., 32-year-old lawyer, was burned severely in a gas explosion at his home last night.

Members of the family said Mann went to the basement to see about a pilot light which had gone out. When he struck a match, escaped gas ignited and flared up.

Mann was taken to Methodist Hospital, Memphis.

Physicians today said his condition was satisfactory and that he was not in any immediate danger.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Asked if he thought Communists are qualified to teach in the nation's schools and universities, he replied:

"From my experience and associations, I feel honestly that anyone, irrespective of his opinions, if he is a good teacher, should be permitted to teach."

When Rep. Clardy (R-Mich.) asked if this included an active Communist, Singer said: "If he doesn't use the teaching platform for his political views."

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1953
By King Features Syndicate

Far from resorting to excessive means in exposing persons in the Roosevelt-Truman administration, the committees of Congress have been uniformly afraid to summon the obvious key witnesses and to make them answer questions or stand accused by their own silence.

It is absurd to trifle with second and third-rate suspects when Eleanor Roosevelt, Felix Frankfurter, Dean Acheson, Henry Wallace and Drew Pearson are still alive and subject to congressional subpoena under penalty of jail for refusal. I cannot call them Communists; but no matter. It is not what they are but what they know and what they have done that matters.

We have so dulled our understanding of the true status of a President's wife or widow that too many of our senators, congressmen and ordinary citizens would blush at the very thought of throwing this impudent old conspirator into the clink. Roosevelt wasn't king, but the Roosevelt cult has established a myth of royal privilege and personal sanctity which now has no foundation in law or in the healthy American tradition of equality under law. She flagrantly exploited for ulterior motives and financial profit the special respect which most Americans willingly yield a well-behaved wife of a President. She forfeited the respect by her aggressive association with detestable fronts and causes and other offensive conduct. Why, then, should the Messrs. McCarthy, McCarran, Jenner, Welker and Volde pass her up? The answer lies in the degrading myth of majesty. Such committees have few accomplishments to their credit as valuable to the national spirit as the demolition of this thrall and the rehabilitation of the fact that a President's wife or widow has no privilege that doesn't belong to the least of us, and has the same responsibilities that lie upon us all.

It would be tedious to rehash here all the sordid activities which tainted her reign. There is a brief summary of them in the June Mercury by J. B. Matthews, in my opinion, the champion Red-baiter of the time. There are 33 fronts in his article by which "her name has been used in one way or another, as speaker, donor, sponsor, officer, etc." and they are by no means all.

Would the world vanish in a blast of flame if a Senate or House committee should send her a summons and treat her exactly as her conduct should deserve?

Frankfurter is a politician. For a long time, he was the unofficial but obvious chief of a machine of appointees, including Alger Hiss, who was not the worst of a bad lot. Frankfurter is the only nominee for the Supreme court who ever needed a mouthpiece, Dean Acheson by name, to represent him in the hearings on his fitness before the Judiciary Committee. He should be compelled to answer or go to jail under precedents endorsed by the court on which he sits. In the article on communism in the White House, Doctor Matthews bears down on the important fact that Roosevelt was not stupid enough to believe Maxim Litvinoff's promise to desist from interference in our domestic affairs was made in good faith or would be respected. That surely is sensible, or whatever our hatred of the memory of the bawdy, drunken, infidel court which gave communism its advantage over Western Christendom, we cannot believe that these people didn't know their Reds.

Frankfurter is at hand, not five minutes' walk from the committee rooms of both houses. Matthews tells us that "shortly before the election of 1932, Frankfurter informed friends that recognition was in the bag because, in this matter, at least, he had the new administration in his vest pocket." Matthews, an old fellow-traveler, was present at a party in New York when Weenie gave this assurance and admonished several more lest they rock the boat.

Let the committees put Weenie over the hurdles with his neckling and hair-splitting at the bar.

Frankfurter is not bashful. He volunteered to testify to the fine character of his protegee, Hiss, and the judge all but kissed him in his rapture in the presence of the great man. But Tom Murphy the prosecutor now a federal judge and himself, pinned her ears back when Weenie went into one of his devious turns. Murphy told him he was aning and tangling the truth.

A dead-pan examination of Frankfurter by a lawyer under no handi-caps of awe would elicit facts thus far only suspected. There is much evidence that he connived and meddled in many matters outside the court and that he planted man supercilious Harvard double-domes in the fateful New Deal bureaucracy. Hiss admitted that Frankfurter put him in.

Acheson and Wallace know much that the American people have a right to know. Adlai Stevenson testified that Acheson's ring in the State Department, including two Hiss "boys," were pro-Soviet when even he was beginning to suspect Moscow's intentions. And he said Drew Pearson had an agent there who was getting "leaks" of information so secret that it was designated "magic."

Pearson is not a "newspaperman" but a propagandist and conspirator who enjoys the use of the columns of many papers for his clandestine purposes. He had one proven Communist "legman," and another who wrote for the Daily Worker and frequented its office. He also had a "plant" in the White House whose job was cancelled by Harry Vaughan when Carson carried out a threat to "blast" Vaughan for interfering with his schemes. He agitated for Army commissions or Communists without disclosing that they were Communists.

And, in all, there is a recent revelation that Pearson applauded the selection of a plant on General MacArthur in Japan as economic and financial adviser. This individual, Harold Glasser, on April 14, refused to answer questions although, as the New York Times put it, "the exhibit linked his name to alleged Soviet espionage." Glasser did give "advice" at in-

Britishers May Reach High Peak

NEW DELHI, India (UP) — The British mountain climbing expedition, attempting to scale unconquered Mt. Everest, was promised a break in the weather today which may enable it to reach its goal atop the 29,002-foot peak.

The New Delhi weather station, which broadcasts weather information to the climbers, told them today that fair weather can be expected over Everest for at least the next two days.

Two previous attempts at the hazardous last 4,000 feet of the climb failed last week end.

The expedition's efforts were further complicated by "altitude sickness" an ailment induced by heavy exertion in the thin, high air — which overcame two of the youngest members of the British party.

But the break in the weather and promises that monsoon winds will remain weak and primarily confined to the Bay of Bengal were expected to prompt a new attempt, in spite of the reported illnesses.

When Italy's president, Luigi Einaudi was a professor of law, one of his pupils was Palmiro Togliatti who became head of the Communist Party in Italy.

International conferences to George Marshall and Acheson as secretaries of state but he refused to say whether he conferred with services to Marshall at a council of Communists before offering his services to Marshall at a council of foreign ministers in Moscow in 1947.

He said "another excellent choice to be announced by the White House is that of Treasury's Harold Glasser, who will head a special economic and financial mission remaining in Japan to advise MacArthur."

Pearson has two queer lawsuits pending against me and others who have exposed him. Some persons think it improper to continue to discredit him during pendency. The answer is that such things drag on for years and that this menace would be allowed to build himself a sanctuary out of a few sheets of legal paper on file with the clerk of some court.

Ridgway to Make Last Inspection

PARIS (UP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway will make a farewell inspection tour of 11 North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations to compile a report on atomic defense progress before taking over as U.S. Army chief of staff, it was disclosed today.

High officials at Supreme Allied headquarters said a prime objective of the tour would be to verify the "absolute necessity" of including use of U. S. atomic artillery in European defense plans now being brought up to date.

Military planners fear possible "neutralist" opposition to the transfer of atomic guns to Europe on the ground that Russia might consider it an "aggressive act."

You'd Be Amazed at Your Savings... with Aero Willys

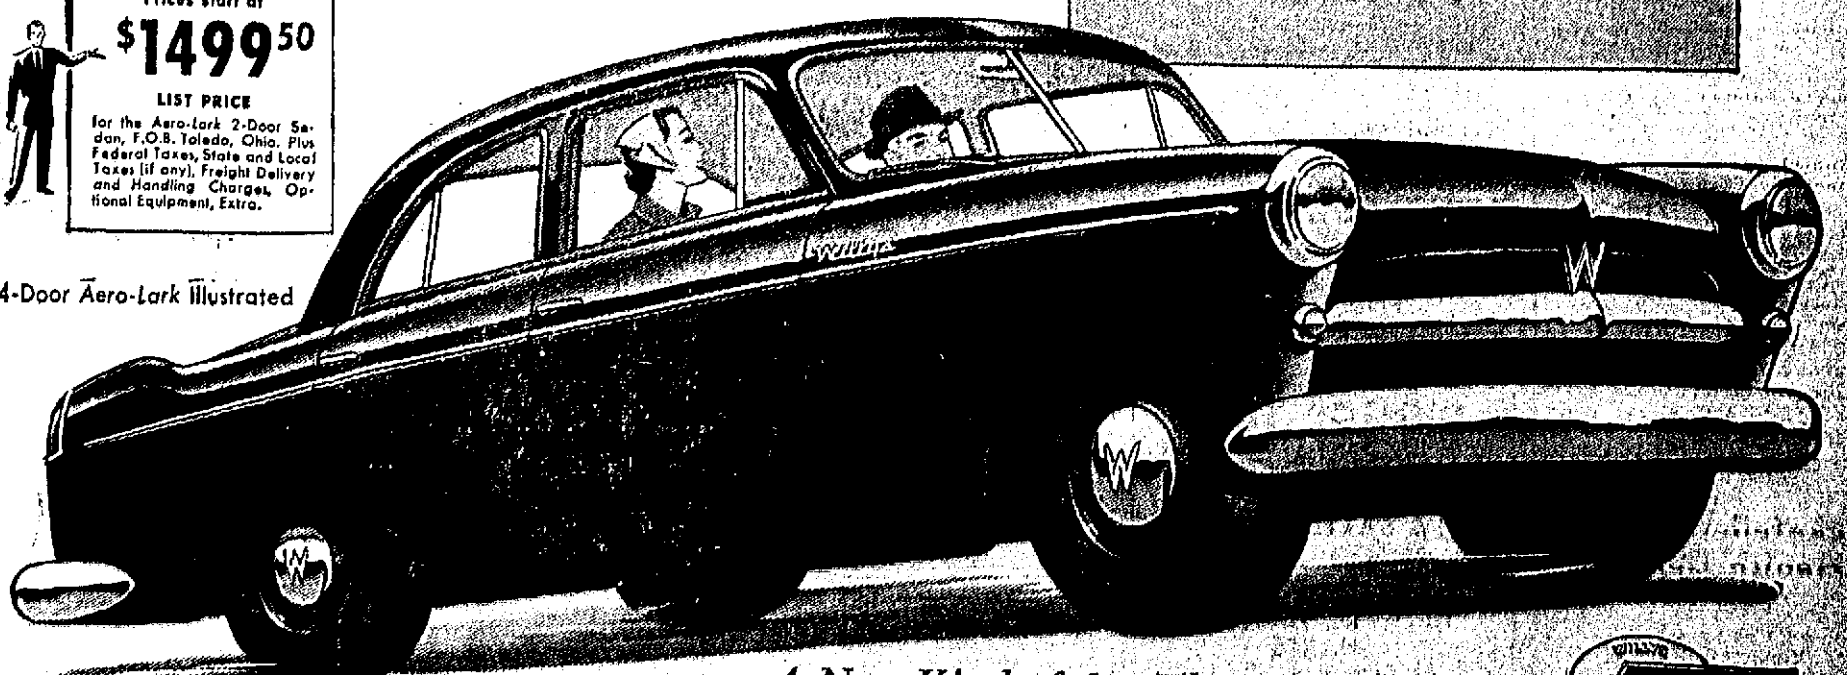

With an Aero Willys, if you average only 27 miles a gallon, for 10,000 miles you would use about 370 gallons. At 26c your gas would cost only $96.20 a year. (Reports have been received of special tests showing up to 35 miles per gallon, with overdrive.)

If you average 15 miles a gallon with your present car, and drive it 10,000 miles a year, you would use about 666 gallons of gas. Regular gas at 26c would cost you $173.16 a year.

The difference you can save on gas alone with the Aero Willys may be as much as $76.96 a year... but you also save on oil, repairs and other maintenance. In addition to economy, this low, young-looking, stylish car is extremely comfortable, has the ruggedness of the 'Jeep'... the luxury of an airliner... has been judged the safest car of the year by Motor Trend Magazine.

Prices start at $1499.50

One Killed in Memphis Blast

MEMPHIS (AP) — An explosion jolted the National Fireworks Ordinance Plant at nearby Cordova today killing one person and injuring five.

Mrs. Edna Nicholson, 26, was killed. Seriously injured was Mrs. Marie Lemons, 29.

The other four injured were treated at the plant hospital and sent home, Laurence said.

Cause of the explosion had not been determined. Slight damage was done to the plant which employs about 150 persons.

Cruise with Death

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

IN SPITE of myself I did listen, and caught a muffled throbbing distinct from the throbbing of the engine, a far-off, insistent pulse. "It sounds like a drum," I said.

"It's a drum, all right," Macbeth answered. "I thought the sound must be coming from the wind from some near-by island, and instinctively glanced toward the dark porthole. Macbeth noticed the look, and smiled her sly smile again.

"We have been out of sight of land since dark. It's the Haitians. They say it is a bad luck cruise. They say one of the passengers has put a charm on them. They're working themselves up down there."

"What for?" I asked, without meaning to.

Macbeth tilted her head knowingly on her short neck. Even now she would not give me a straight answer. "There's a bad storm coming, I know the signs." She paused, then a d d d enigmatically, "The only firearms left on board is the captain's."

I had had enough of her, her hints, her threats, her most unwelcome pity. I could not stand there and have my emotions played on any longer. The only cure for the sort of horror that was creeping over me lay in action. I was going to find Robert, no matter where I had to look for him.

I completely forgot what she had said about not going around the ship alone in the dark, but if I had remembered it would have made no difference. I pushed past her, satisfied myself with a quick look in Robert's cabin, that she had been telling the truth about his absence, and ran up the forward staircase in a blind flight from I did not know what.

Macbeth panted along behind me, but I was in a hurry and she could not keep up. To my surprise, it was quite hard to move around. The sea had risen ominously since dinner, and the Spiritus lurched heavily from side to side.

Somebody cried out, "The captain's dead!"

The captain was not dead. By the time I reached the bridge, two sailors and Todd were helping him get up from the floor of his cabin, while blood streamed from a cut on the crown of his head and stained the shoulder of his white uniform. The door swung loosely to and fro in the slow heave of the ship.

The snug little cabin was in confusion. Every drawer had been opened and the contents dumped, the bed had pulled apart, the wardrobe opened. The intruder had evidently been interrupted in the middle of a search.

Helped into a chair, Jonas cursed fluently. "Jumped me from behind. Jumped me from behind the door as I come in from the wheelhouse."

The ship lurched heavily. One of the sailors looked frightened and ran back to the wheel. Another sailor came up on the double, bringing Randolph. The doctor was wearing dark blue pajamas, his feet were bare and his hair tousled, but he was carrying a bag of medical equipment. He told us afterward that Opdyke had asked him to bring it along, and had even described what should be in it with great particularity. He went to work without a pause for explanations.

"It's only a scalp wound—I hope. But I'll have to take some stitches."

I had had some rudimentary nurse's training in the army, so I offered to help him, brought a bowl of water and some clean towels, while he cut away the blood-matted hair. Braced against a bulkhead, I tried to hold a small bowl steady while permanganate was poured into it.

"I haven't tried surgery since medical school," said Randolph cheerfully.

The captain looked up at him with a suspicious surliness. His lean face had turned a dirty gray, and his brows drew a straight black line low on the bridge of his sharp nose.

In the middle of the operation, an unfamiliar voice from the doorway made us all jump. "You hadn't ought to let him touch you, Pa."

We looked around, and saw the second officer, Ezekiah Jonas, and Frederick Brown standing there. Brown still wore his evening clothes—I was beginning to think he slept in them—and his imperious manner, but Ezekiah seemed to be holding his dangle bones together by bracing both feet and hands against the doorframe. Until then, none of the passengers had heard him speak or paid him any attention. Yet his resemblance to his father was so strong that it should have been noticed.

"Don't be a fool, Hez," said the captain sharply. "Get to work and spruce up here."

Plainly the captain had the Indian sign on his face, for he started to obey without a word. Frederick Brown loudly regretted the lack of equipment for taking fingerprints.

The captain shook his head. "He wore gloves. I felt his hands. You think you're smart, the lot of ye, but you'll pay for this."

Brown asked him if he felt well enough to tell us what had happened. About that time the doctor stuck a hypodermic into his scalp, but the captain was out to prove himself invulnerable, and his eyelids did not flicker as he spoke.

"I was after my pipe. The light wouldn't go on. Todd here found a pin stuck in it later. I was a-fussing with it, when a crack on the head knocked me down. I made a grab as I fell, and felt a gloved hand, but couldn't hold on. The fellow got away. I landed one good kick, though. He'd ought to show the mark of it."

The lawyer looked the doctor over meaningfully. "Blood might have splashed him."

Randolph smiled urbanely. "Come now, Brown. You don't suppose I'd turn up here reeking with gore?" He skillfully gave the captain a second hypodermic in the arm.

Brown could not give up being the investigator. "Was there anybody on the bridge who could have recognized the man?"

"Just the helmsman, Miller. And he never left go of the wheel until he heard me shoutin'. Then he run in to me first off, and that give the stinker his chance. We don't even know which way he went."

The doctor had threaded a curved needle with gut, and was watching his patient with the bright professional interest of a biologist about to dissect a rat. Jonas, nursing his terrific rage, hardly paid any attention to him.

"Keep on looking, all of ye, as much as ye've a mind to, for the will or the combination to the safe. The will's in a safe place, and the combination's here," he snarled, and tapped his forehead significantly.

"The novocain should have taken effect by now," the doctor said calmly. They were all talking as if glass walls prevented their hearing what another person said. "So if you will hold his arm, Brown, and the mate will steady his head, we can proceed."

For the first time the Captain roused himself to a full awareness of what was going on. "Take your hands off me, the whole bling lot of ye. I'll set still for the doctor."

"It isn't wise to try it. The ship is unsteady, and I am out of practice. My hand might slip."

"I say get on with it. Are ye going to take all night?"

Wanted Criminal Sought by FBI

CHICAGO, (AP) — David Dallas Taylor, 28, a convicted murderer and one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was summoned before a U. S. Court commissioner today, he faced a charge of unlawful flight to avoid confinement on a charge of murder.

Taylor had been hunted since last September when he escaped from a train at Birmingham, Ala., while being returned to prison at Kilby, Ala., where he was serving a 20-year term for killing a prison guard. The killing occurred when Taylor made the first of four escapes in June, 1948, from the Walker County Jail at Jasper, Ala.

Taylor told FBI agents he had been working for various manufacturers in Chicago since his escape from the jail.

last fall. He said he had married Betty Klein, 17, last February. He said the girl, whom he met in a North Side restaurant, knew nothing of his criminal record. She was not held.

Election Probe Launched by Senate Group

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., (AP)—The House of the Senate election committee today announced the group will probe the election of New Mexico senators, but "we're going to do the job we've been given."

The subcommittee, made up of Sen. Harold H. Burton, chairman; Sen. Hiram Bingham (D-Mo.) and Sen. Hiram Bingham (D-Mo.) arrived by plane from Washington late yesterday to look into the dispute over one of New Mexico's Senate seats.

Republican Patrick Hurley is contesting the election of his opponent, Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM). A Senate decision upon a recount, District Judge P. F. Deacon, Democrat, told clerks of the county, all in his district, not to open ballot boxes and election books except by his order.

The next step was the subcommittee's orders to Arledge and the county clerk of Bernalillo County deliver ballots, ballot boxes, but not keys and voting records until the formal subcommittee hearing opened today.

They didn't, a possible contempt of the Senate charge hung over the heads.

Yesterday, three motions were filed asking the subcommittee to modify its orders. Atty. Gen. John Robinson declared the state was upholding New Mexico's election routine. Arledge said he wanted to cooperate with the subcommittee, but he believed the order should be set up so it didn't interfere with New Mexico's election. And a motion for Bernalillo County Clerk J. C. Claborn complained that it delayed one order, she would obeying the order.

Up to the pre-morning future, Mr. Barrett said he believed compromise might be worked out.

Jurors Picked in Murder Trial

BATESVILLE, (AP)—Jurors were picked today for the trial of an Independence County Cattleman on a charge of first degree murder in a Christmas day gun battle slaying.

Les Rutledge is one of three men who are charged in the shooting of Joe Beal on Dec. 25, 1952 as the result of a feud which erupted on the top of Hutchinson Mountain.

The other two, Vernon and Alvin Lewis, will be tried separately. The prosecution announced that it is not seeking the death penalty. Sheriff Burton Arnold said Beal was killed in a gun battle that began when the Lewis brothers attempted to cross the Beal property on their way to visit Rutledge. The Lewis brothers were sniping behind wire on the Beal property when shots were fired, the sheriff said. Beal was shot in the neck and killed and his brother, Frank, seriously wounded.

The sheriff said he didn't know who shot first.

Senators Accept Postoffice Funds

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A Senate appropriations subcommittee accepted without change today the funds voted by the House for the Treasury and Post Office departments in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The measure carries a total of $214,145,000 or about 3.5 per cent less than recommended by former President Truman and one-seventh of one per cent less than the revised budget estimates of President Eisenhower. It also is about four million dollars less than the appropriation for the current fiscal year.

Of the total, $2,832,250,000 is for the Post Office Department and $211,312,750 for the Treasury Department.

The cuts of $122,063,000 in the amounts asked by Truman are accounted for largely by a reduction of $4,350,000 in coast guard funds and of $50,100,000 for transportation of mail.

Oatis Sent to a Rest Home

NEW YORK, (AP)—William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent recently released from a Czech Communist prison, will enter a sanatorium within a few days for treatment of a lung condition he contracted during confinement.

He has been pronounced in good physical condition by physicians who examined him, except for a possibility that tuberculosis is still active in a small area. The length of his stay in the sanatorium has not been determined.

Oatis who originally had been sentenced to a 10-year term on espionage charges, was released by Czech officials May 10. He said his news-gathering activities in Czechoslovakia which led to his trial would have been considered routine in the United States.

Naturalized American Praised

By DONALD GONZALES WASHINGTON (UP) — Members of Congress today praised the courageous patriotism of V. C. Georgescu, the naturalized American who spurned a chance to ransom his two children from Red Rumania by betraying his adopted country.

The Communist attempt to blackmail Georgescu into espionage endangered lawmakers of both parties, and brought demands that the United States close down the Rumanian legation.

But official anger was mixed with a feeling of frustration, born from the knowledge that there is very little this country can do to protect the lives of the two teenage boys held somewhere in a Rumanian prison camp.

The convention, attended by more than 9,000 delegates, voted also a $900,000 appropriation for the next three years to continue a program of scholarships to outstanding college graduates.

ROTARIANS ELECT

PARIS (AP) — Rotary International today elected Jaouin Serratos Cebils of Montevideo, Uruguay, as its new president and approved Seattle, Wash., as next year's convention city.

The convention, attended by more than 9,000 delegates, voted also a $900,000 appropriation for the next three years to continue a program of scholarships to outstanding college graduates.

KNOW YOUR ENEMY!

The American people are still unaccustomed to having an enemy. Between about 1920 and 1941, some Americans thought of Japan as an enemy and laughed that country off as too insignificant to bother with. During the Hitler period in Germany, an effort was made to stir public opinion to hate Germany and fear a Fifth Column with little success until war came. There are still a great many Americans who laugh away the Russian menace. They say that the Russians will never meet our productivity.

Let us therefore have a look at the enemy. Soviet Russia is 8,500,000 square miles spread across 100 degrees of latitude, or nearly halfway around the globe. China is about 4 million square miles of territory. Together they constitute about 12 million square miles, or four times the size of the United States. It is 6,000 miles from Vladivostok to Leningrad. It is 2,500 miles from New York to San Francisco.

The Russian sphere of influence includes much more territory than this. Also to be counted are Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, part of Finland, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Albania, and East Germany. Such lands, the Kure Islands, China, Mongolia, Tibet, etc.

Also, Russia has troops moving into Indo-China, fighting in Korea, and on the borders of Iran. Soviet China has conquered Tibet. In Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary, Russia has come into possession of large industrial plants. In East Germany, coal and potash mines, metal smelting plants, artificial gas and rubber plants serve Russia. In Czechoslovakia, Russia got the great Skoda steel works. These are to be added to the industrialization of Russia under a series of "Five Year Plans," which produced important heavy industry plants in the Donbas Basin, in the Urals and in Siberia. Last year, Russia produced 25 million tons of steel, which figure is about one-third of American production, but which is a potentiality is higher because nothing there need be used for consumer's goods.

While Russia and China are storehouses of mineral wealth, much of them is still unexplored. In the United States, the coal, iron and oil deposits are rapidly being used up. In Soviet Russia, they are being held back at all. In fact, little is known accurately of the quantity and quality of the Russian mineral potential.

Russian employs both a free and a slave labor force. The free labor force, consisting of men, women and children works a 48-hour week, and is given Stakhanov prizes for labor productivity on a basis which in the United States would be regarded as brutal.

The Communist form of government tends toward a bureaucratic despotism, which is not unlike old Russia. It differs from Czarist Russia in that officials come from the people, rising through various grades of the Communist Party and the official bureaucracy.

Public opinion is controlled by the Communist Party. No divergence of opinion is permitted. Such a dissent, for instance, as Senator Wayne Morse's would not be tolerated. He would either be imprisoned or sent to a slave labor camp or killed. No opposition party exists.

Nevertheless, nations recently taken by the Russian government would indicate that party representatives and to secret police have reported a mass discontent following the death of Stalin. The nature of this discontent, whether it is within the Communist Party or outside it, is not known in his country.

It is important to note that the Russian people accepted oppression for a period of about 600 years, with a few unsuccessful revolutions, until 1917. This is a prolonged period for any European people to submit to autocracy and some form of slavery. The submission to despotism must not be overlooked in any appraisal of their character.

The present Russian government is apparently continuing a policy of imperialism in the form of world revolution based on Marxism. All imperial states, throughout history, have employed offensive wars as a weapon of policy. Diplomatically, they have used the device of weakening or destroying all unions of power aimed against them. In this sense, Russia adheres to the historical pattern.

As an enemy, Soviet Russia is formidable and has this advantage: In war, it can act speedily, without consulting any parliamentary body and without any consideration for the wishes of its people. In a period of air-atomic warfare, this gives Russia the initiative against the free countries.

C'MON IN, BOYS, THE WATER'S FINE—If you think this is a young lady inviting a group of firemen into her store you better have another look. It's only a manikin that was caught in a $40,000 Wheeling, W. Va., dress store fire.

May Weather Leaving Mark

May weather, which has already written a destructive record with a series of death-dealing tornadoes, yesterday contributed to more tragedies across the country.

Spring weather left five children to the links of the rain-swollen Miami river at Dayton, O., yesterday and four of them drowned. A late May snowfall killed one man, injured two and blotted out the fate of another in Montana's Glacier National Park.

And a Royal Canadian Air Force Lancaster bomber with 10 men aboard disappeared on the Pacific Coast during a wild rain and wind storm. It was believed down in Oregon.

No Fight for Table Rock Dam Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Trimble (D-Ark.) says there likely will be no fight made in the House to get money for the Table Rock dam and reservoir in Missouri.

Instead, he said, strategy probably will be concentrated on getting the Senate Appropriations Committee to approve Table Rock for inclusion in the bill on that side.

Bar to Take Sides on Tax System

WYNNE 3 — The Arkansas Bar Association will take a stand on Gov. Francis Cherry's plan to revise the state's tax assessment system.

Bar Association President J. L. (Boss) Shaver said the lawyers will make their position known before the November, 1954 general election after a careful study.

If voters approve the proposed constitutional amendment at next year's election, tax assessments would be aimed at market value of real and personal property instead of the present nominal 20 per cent value.

Proposed budgets for operation of school districts, counties and municipalities would be put to popular vote. The tax rate, within certain fixed limits, would be the amount necessary to meet these budgets.
